What They Learn

Group members learn and practice the pro-social skills needed for success in middle school. Skills are taught directly practiced through role play, games, cooperative and competitive activities.

Social Bridges middle school curriculum focuses on the following core skills: self-esteem, growth-mindset, making and keeping friends, stress management, flexibility, communication skills, self-advocacy, social filter and social prediction.

The group will meet monthly in a community setting to help generalize skills.

Parents receive weekly written Communication regarding the social tools their middle schooler is learning and suggestions for practicing, reinforcing, and coaching skills at home.
